

Week One Homework

1. Create a new folder in your favorite directory (e.g. on the desktop in your computer). (Right click on the desktop -> “New” -> “Folder”)

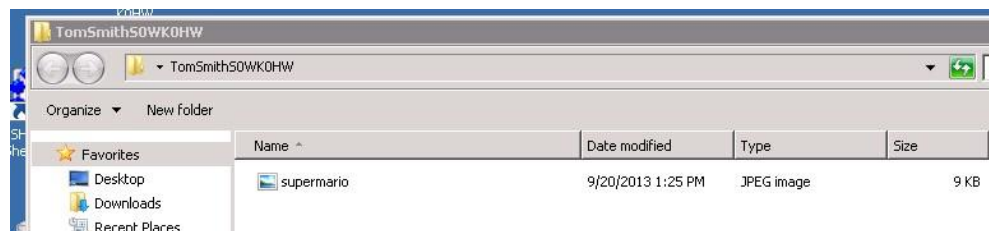

2. Right click on your newly created folder and rename your folder with the following name:
FirstNameLastNameG#WK#P (FirstName = Your first name, LastName = Your last name, S# = Your group number, WK# = week number, P = Program)

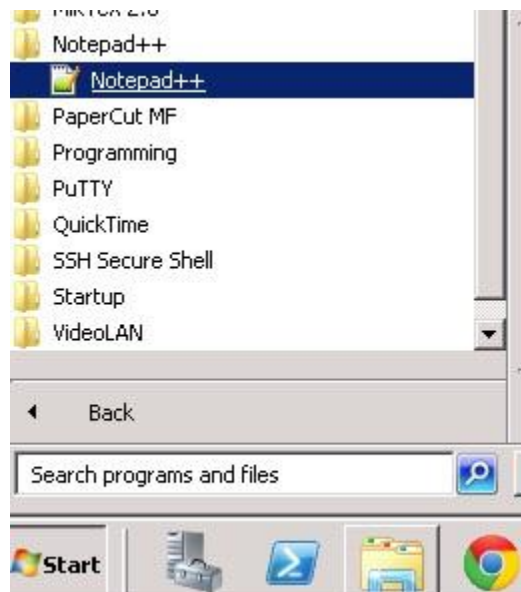

For example, my name is Tom Smith, I am in group 1 and this is the week #(WK1 for week 1), your folder should be named as follows: TomSmithG1WK1P.

3. Move all files that will be used (e.g. figures, audios, videos, etc.) to your folder. In this example, “supermario.jpg” which you can download from the "Week 1" folder in the Data Files (click on the 'Data Files' on the COMS 106 Blackboard homepage).

You need to move this supermario.jpg to your folder.

4. Click on the “Start” button on the lower left corner of your screen. Click on “All Programs”, find and click on “Notepad++” folder and then click on “Notepad++” to start Notepad++ on your computer.

5. In the main window, type in the code exactly as it is shown below:

```
<!DOCTYPE HTML>
```

```
<html>
```

```
<body>
```

Hello! This is my Orientation Week Program.

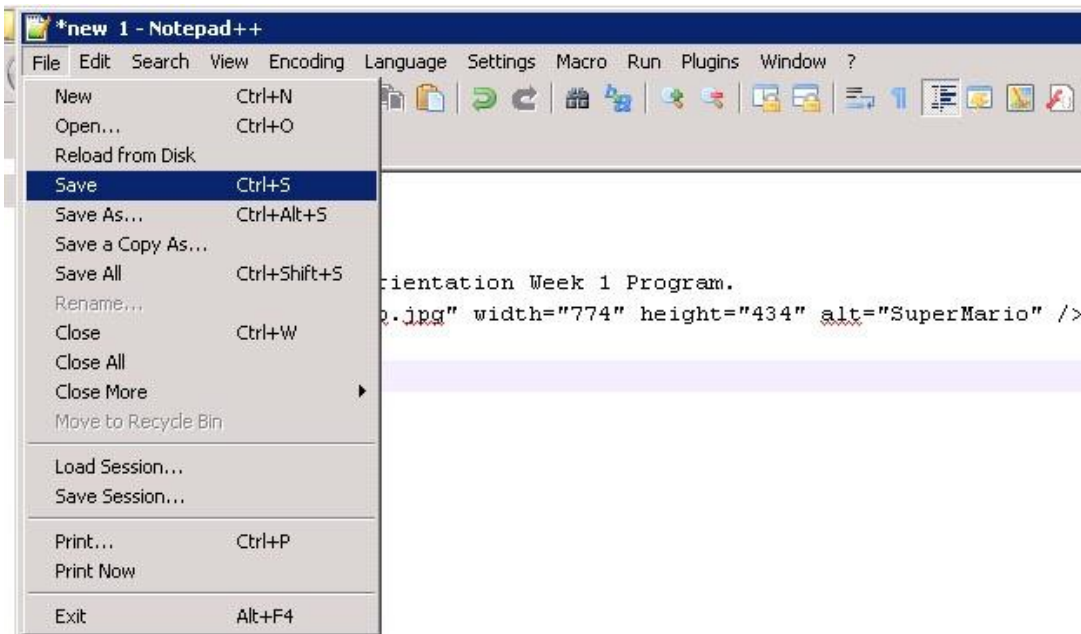

```

```

```
</body>
```

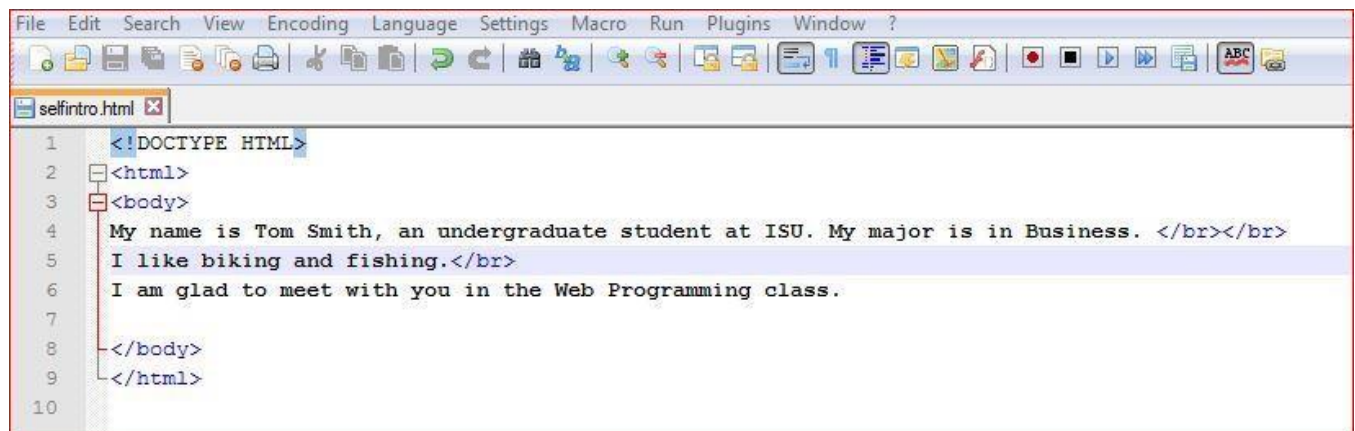

```
</html>
```

6. On the menu bar, click on “File”, then click on “Save”. Save this file as “welcomecoms106.html” to your folder.

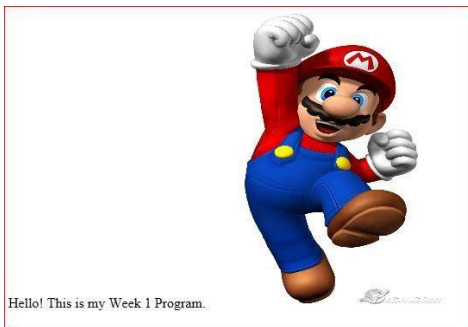

7. Open Notepad++ again. This time, you may replace the sentence within the <body></body> group of the code you just wrote, with a short description of yourself. (e.g. What is your name? Where are you from? What do you study? What are your hobbies?)

For example, the following code can be entered and “” is used to change line when displaying the webpage on the browser.

8. Save the file again as “selfintro.html” to your desktop.
9. Open two webpages that you have just created in the browser:
 - a) Double click the “welcomecoms106.html” file in your folder. You will see the following output.

- b) Double click the ‘selfintro.html’ file in your folder. You will see the following output.

My name is Tom Smith, an undergraduate student at ISU. My major is in Business.

I like biking and fishing.

I am glad to meet with you in the Web Programming class.

10. Zip your folder “TomSmithG1WK1P” to be “TomSmithG1WK1P.zip” and send to your group TA through Blackboard email.
